

Samuel Goldfield

Product, design, and front-end developer with several years of experience.

(732) 309-8920
sam@rutgers.io
samgoldfield.com

EXPERIENCE

Access Control Group, Cranbury, NJ — Product Intern

November 2016 - February 2017

Contributed to wireframing and quality assurance during development of iOS, Android, and web apps. Provided promotional material designs.

Rutgers Course Sniper, Piscataway, NJ — Developer

October 2013 - September 2016

App written about in The New York Times (<https://nyti.ms/2mxhMem>).
Managed AWS and DNS for the widely-visited web app.

Wolfram Research, Champaign, IL — Intern

January 2016 - July 2016

Worked remotely. Instructed lectures on Mathematica programming language and its applications through API.

EDUCATION

Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ — Bachelor's of Science

Graduated January 2017

Studied computer science concepts and languages. Placed on Dean's List for Academic Achievement. Involved in extracurriculars, such as Hack RU, Rutgers Computing Help Desk, and Rutgers eSports club.

PROJECTS

VICE Media Data Visualization — Contract

Assisted the implementation of a Python-based Google and Youtube API visualization of VICE's multiple platforms.

SKILLS

HTML & CSS

Javascript

Amazon Web Servers

Sketch

Adobe Suite

Microsoft Suite

Linux & MacOS & Windows

Command Line

Swift

AWARDS & HONORS

Dean's List for Academic Achievement

New York Times article regarding Rutgers Course Sniper

1st Place MLH 2015 Season North America

Board Member Hack RU, 2014-2015

LANGUAGES

English

Russian